Plant ROSES this Fall!

BEN ARTHUR DAVIS

A Rose of our own introduction, of which we are mighty proud. Inside the petals are golden yellow at base, growing lighter at the edges; reverse tinged with pink. Plants are willing workers. 60c each.

JEAN BOSTICK

(Bostick, 1937)

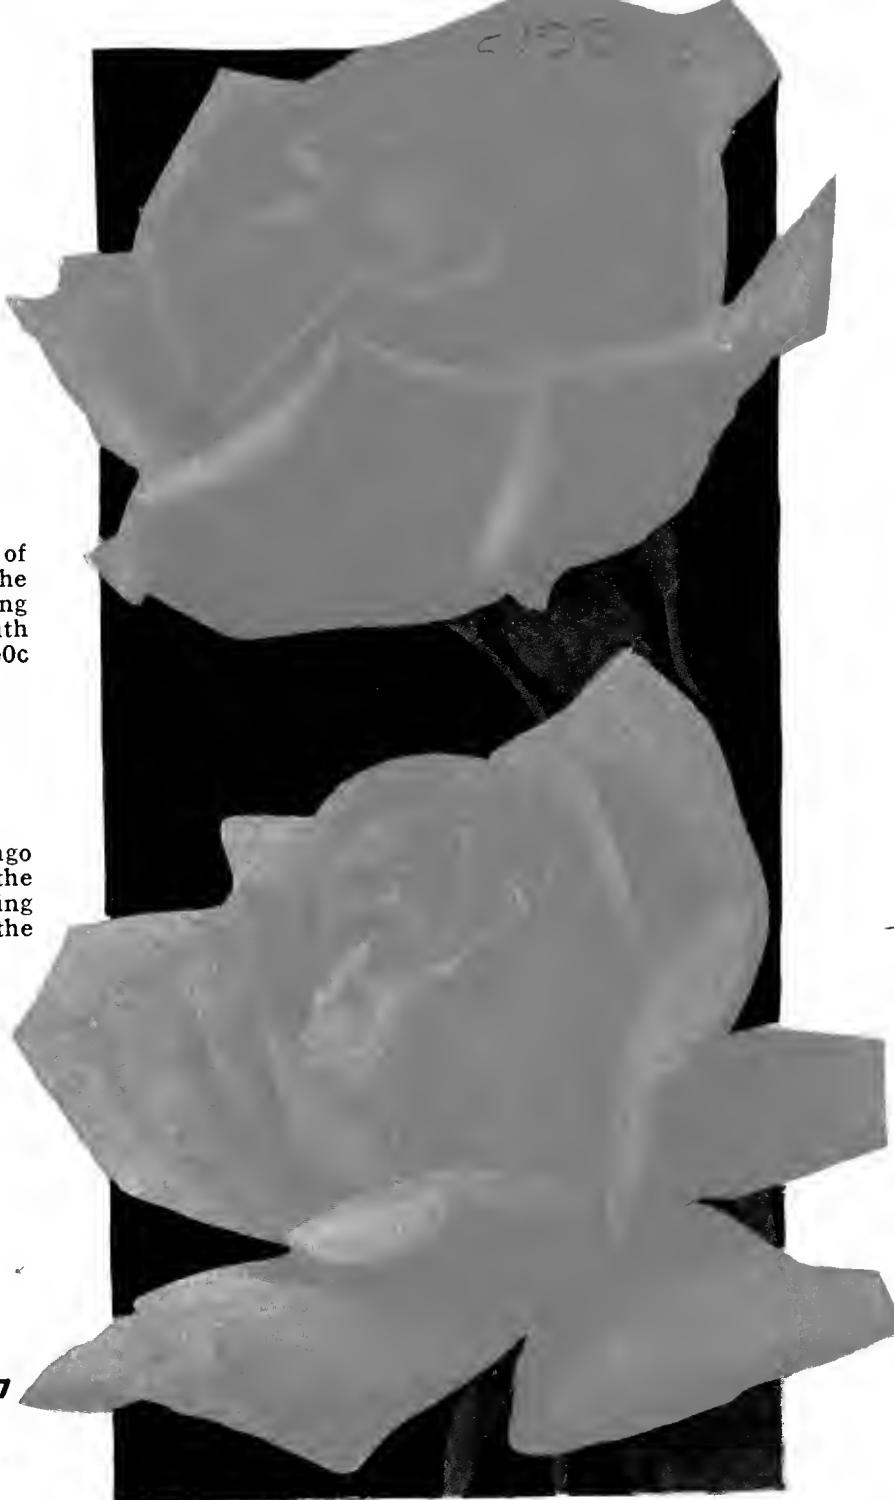

Yellow Condesa de Sastago

Our own rich yellow sport of Sastago with the same form of flower and the same splendid, upright, free-blooming bush of its parent. Holds its color in the sun. 40c each.

MISS EDITH CAVELL

POLYANTHA ROSES

For small hedges, solid beds of color, or groups in shrubbery border, there isn't anything that can compare with Polyantha Roses. They come the nearest to being truly everblooming of any of the Rose family, requiring very little care and come into bloom early in the season, producing crop after crop of flowers until stopped by frost.

Do not prune them, simply thin out and remove the dead wood and the oldest canes. They will then cover themselves with bloom.

GLORIA MUNDI

Baby Doll. Exquisite little Roses, pink and coppery yellow edged rose. The baby blooms look like pink and white popcorn. Dwarf. 40c each.

Eblouissant. Bushy little plants with small flowers of blackish crimson. Nice for edgings or low hedges. 25c each.

Gloria Mundi. Small, orange-scarlet flowers in great clusters. This is the best of the many orange-scarlet Polyanthas, as it holds its color. 25c each.

George Elger. Perfectly formed little Roses of light yellow are generously produced on small branching plants. 25c each.

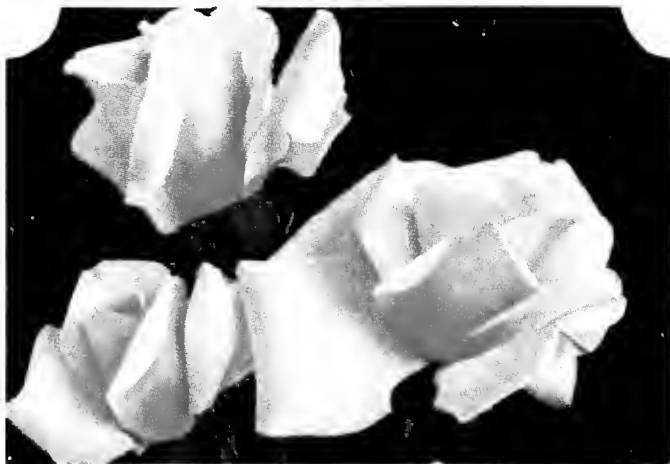

Golden Salmon. Clusters of orange-scarlet flowers. 25c each.

Ideal. Medium-sized blooms of dark scarlet thickly cover bushy plants of about the height of an average Hybrid Tea. 25c each.

Katharina Zeimet. Fine, branching plants of only medium height and a profusion of small pure white flowers. 25c each.

Lafayette. Quite large flowers of a lovely shade of cherry-red. One of the most popular varieties. 25c each.

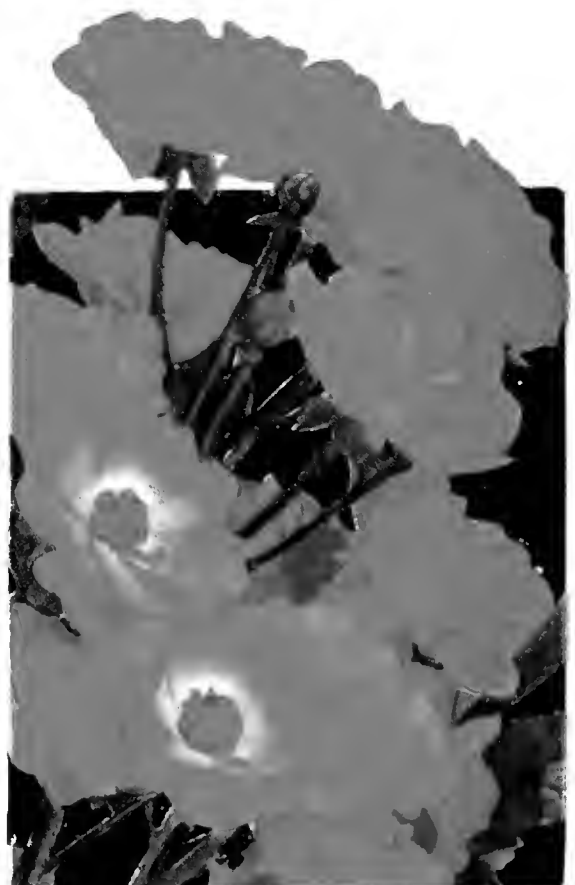

Miss Edith Cavell. Attractive, semi-double blooms of brilliant scarlet-red. Always good to look at and dependable. 25c each.

CLIMBING ROSES

Few gardens have as many Climbing Roses as they could or should. Climbing Roses take up very little room. They can be trained on pillars, fences, trellises, arbors, against buildings, or allowed to ramble at will, and, when in full bloom, there isn't any flowering shrub that can equal them. Many of them are sports of Dwarf Roses in which case they produce larger and finer flowers than do their dwarf parents and, of course, furnish many more long-stemmed flowers for cutting. Our collection includes the best of the Climbers for the South.

Planting in Autumn is Advised

All advantages of growth favor Roses planted as soon as possible after the first of November. The ground at this season is still warm; this encourages root-growth. In the spring, the ground is cold and the atmosphere warm, encouraging top-growth. The result is that Roses in large numbers wither and die in hot weather. By all means, plant them in the latter part of November and through December.

"The DEPENDABLE 15"

Again we have selected fifteen Roses which we believe will give the Rose-lover a range of finely formed blooms in all the different Rose colors. We have selected strong-growing, vigorous varieties which are as nearly fool-proof as possible. With the Dependable Fifteen you can have Roses for every occasion. By buying several of these collections you can have a beautiful Rose-garden at very low cost.
